Dear Editor:

When the "Moral Majority" praises and supports the most virulent racist regime since (as well as before) Hitler's, is it in any sense moral and does it represent the majority of the people of this nation?

When its own fuehrer Falwell condemns the black South African Nobel peace laureate as a phony, can his word be taken for or can he be trusted with anything at all?

He has announced a $1,000,000.00 political and propaganda campaign in support of the regime that supported Hitler when he was alive and practices his preaching today in a self-described attempt to influence legislation. Can he qualify for a religious tax exemption on any basis other than his support of President Reagan, whose administration controls tax exemptions?

What has become of us when a Falwell can achieve such prominence and political importance by being totally opposed to the most basic American beliefs and Judea-Christian morals and ethics? All the while pretending to speak for God. He disgraces us and all our great traditions.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
